THERAPY SESSION SCHEDULES

Assembly

Session Schedules: Print out desired board and laminate (I made them simple to avoid visual distractions). Cut out pictures symbols you need and laminate. Place velcro on the boxes on the board and on the back of the symbols.

First/Then Boards: Print out and laminate desired board. Place velcro in the boxes. Use with laminated picture symbols.

How I Use

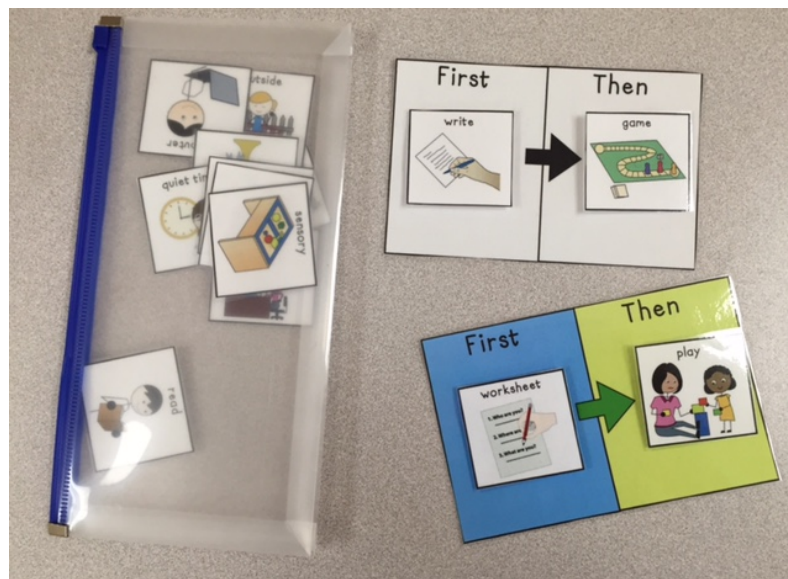

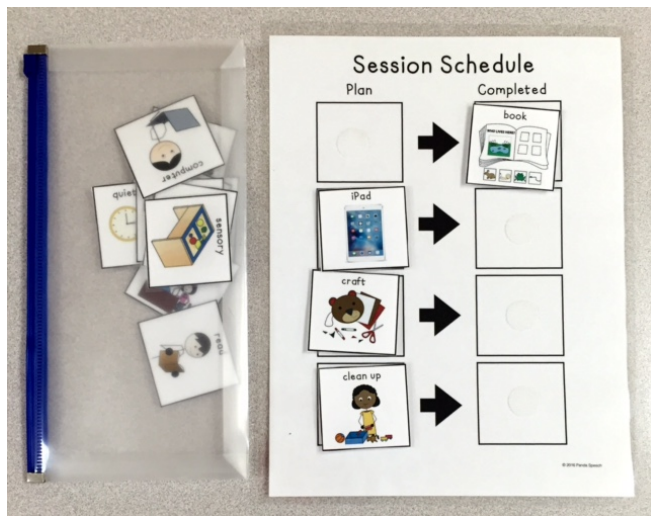

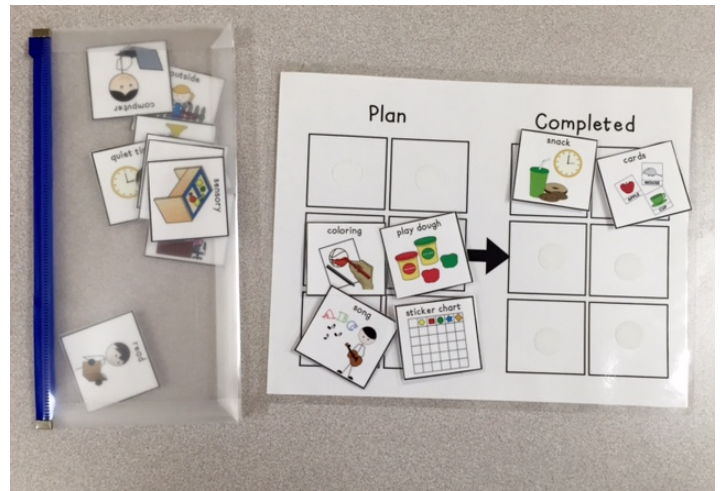

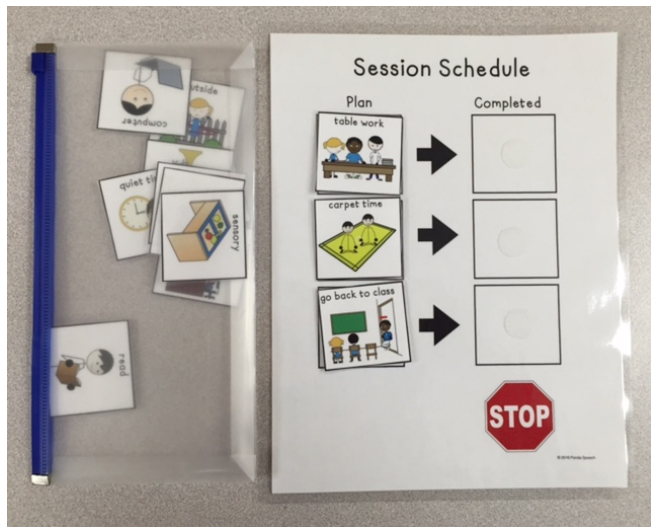

Session Schedules: I use session schedules with most of my students 1st grade and younger. I place the symbols that I need on the 'plan' side and then when we complete the activity I move (or have the students move) the picture to the 'completed' side. I teach the students that when all of the pictures are on the completed side, therapy is finished.

I organized the symbols in broad and specific lists. I often use the broad images to represent more activities in one. For example: I use the table work image to represent any activity we would do at the table (craft, worksheet, drill cards, coloring etc..). Some students may need the more specific activities listed, but I have found it is easier to manage the schedule if I use the broader symbols.

First/Then Boards: Some of my students need a first/then schedule to transition between activities in therapy. This is used to increase therapy participation. The "first" side is for the activity you want them complete and the "then" side is for a desired object or activity. You may need to make your own "then" symbols based on your students' specific interests.

Lightning Bolt & Unexpected symbols: Please refer back to my blog post for more details on the lightning bolt system. When something occurs (assembly, fire drill, lockdown drill, etc...) during therapy, I use the lightning bolt system. I place the lightning bolt symbol on the schedule and show the student the unexpected symbol. (I have pre-taught my students that lightning is unexpected and comes out of no where but things eventually go back to normal).
